

I am strongly opposed to any further cross-ownership of media, and to broadening the scope that any one media entity can own, even as a subsidiary. We already have what one critic calls too much concentrated vertical and horizontal ownership. There might be hundreds of stations, but what good does that do when those hundreds of stations are all influenced by one opinion? We don't need any more media outlets to be owned by fewer and fewer entities. We need more independent owners. Thank you for listening, and please do not proceed with the proposed rules.
